

CELEBRATING WELCOMING WEEK

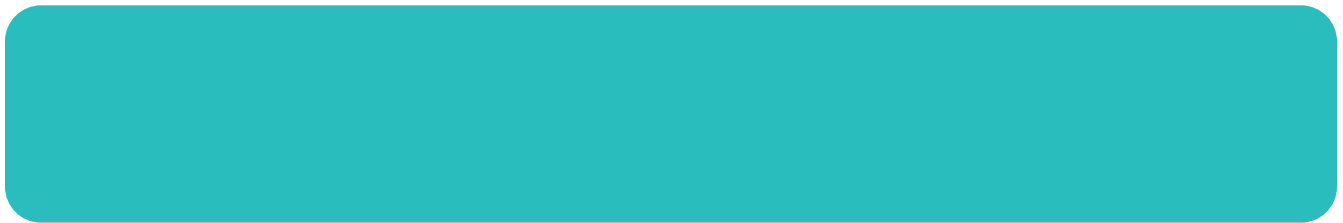

A GUIDE FOR LIBRARIES

Table of Contents

Introduction	3
Suggested Welcoming Week Activities.....	3
Funding Welcoming Week Programs	4
Case Studies	6
Celebrating Year-Round.....	8
Conclusion	10

Introduction

_____ K S

State Level

1. The state level of government is responsible for the majority of public education funding. This is because the state government has the largest budget and the most resources to allocate to education. The state government also has the authority to set standards for education and to regulate the education system. The state government is responsible for the majority of public education funding because it has the largest budget and the most resources to allocate to education. The state government also has the authority to set standards for education and to regulate the education system.

Case Studies

Small and rural libraries often face unique challenges, such as limited budgets, limited staff, and limited space. However, they can also offer unique opportunities for innovation and community engagement. This case study explores the challenges and opportunities of small and rural libraries, and provides examples of innovative practices and programs.

Small and Rural Libraries

Sherwood Public Library, Sherwood, Oregon

Sherwood Public Library (SPL) is a small, rural library with a population of approximately 10,000. The library has a long history of providing quality services to the community, and has recently implemented several innovative practices and programs.

Broward County Library, Florida

... S ... (...) ...
... A/ ... S ... L ... L ...

REFORMA International Relations Committee's Webinar on "Library Services for Recently Arrived Latino Immigrants" recording

