If I have a friend who is a children's book author, does this mean I can never serve on an award or media evaluation committee?

It is not true that if you have a friend who is a children's book author, you can never serve on an award or media evaluation committee. The key is to ensure that you are not in a position of conflict of interest. If you are serving on a committee and your friend is a candidate, you should recuse yourself from the decision-making process. This is a standard ethical requirement for many professional organizations and committees. The goal is to maintain the integrity and fairness of the award process.
